THE beginner in amateur radio will find this an easy rig to build and to operate, and a perfect transmitter with which to gain operating experience.

It is unquestionably a most economical transmitter for any amateur to build, enabling him to "get on the air" with the least possible expenditure for an efficient, versatile rig.

Although complete from power supply to antenna tuning circuit, parts have been held to a minimum and tuning procedure has been greatly simplified.

All the amateur bands from 10 to 160 meters can be worked, with suitable crystals, simply by changing a single coil for each band.

As in all Utah Transmitter Kits, quality has been maintained in all the parts — it's a rig any beginner will be proud to own and operate. See your UTAH Jobber or write direct for complete description and schematic diagram on this and other models.
